Quarterly fund commentary

Asia Pacific ex-Japan equities ended Q4 higher, while Asian dollar denominated bonds also edged up. Almost all Asia Pacific ex Japan equity markets recorded positive returns except India, Thailand and the Philippines. Greater China's equity markets increased on the back of another interest rate cut by the People's Bank of China. Select ASEAN equity markets also rose thanks to policy stimulus measures and the stabilisation in investor sentiment, with Indonesia and Malaysia rallying the most. The Australian equity market rallied, mainly driven by the strong performance of consumer sectors on the back of improved consumer confidence readings during the quarter. We continued to target a 60/40 allocation between equities/bonds due to the relative attractiveness of equity yields. Our investment preference continues to be for what we consider to be quality companies with high dividend yields, sustainable business models, and steadily growing cash income streams. In terms of country allocation, we continue to have sizable weights in Greater China and Australia, and no equity exposure in India and South Korea, mainly due to the lack of dividend stock opportunities there. On the fixed income side, we continue to favour Chinese issuers. On currency management, we maintain hedges on the Australian dollar and the Taiwanese dollar for risk reduction purposes.
