Quarterly fund commentary

The second quarter of 2016 saw good returns from equity, bond and commodity markets. The latter continued to rally after a savage bear market that bottomed in the first quarter. Agricultural commodity prices surged, as challenging weather conditions affected crop yield estimates when demand remained high. Energy commodities also climbed higher, largely on expectations of a better supply and demand balance as the Canadian wildfires, Nigerian rebel activity and the Venezuelan economic crisis affected output. Precious metals and government bonds benefitted from perceived 'safe haven' flows in response to the results of the EU referendum (a narrow win for 'Brexit') and beliefs that central banks would be forced to abandon interest rate hikes in the near term, leading to a 'lower for longer' rate regime. Developed equity markets produced mixed returns. Japan and Europe had been the laggards earlier this year, and that continued to be the case in the second quarter. Looking ahead, 'Brexit' will continue to take centre stage within the financial markets for the foreseeable future. Market participants are keen to gain an understanding of the economic impact it will have not only on the UK and Europe, but also whether there is potential for a disruptive tremor to be sent around the globe.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Whilst the overall risk of the fund intends to be consistent with that of a balanced portfolio of equity and debt securities, this may not be achieved. The fund will make significant use of financial derivatives for investment purposes in excess of the value of the portfolio that could lead to large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund uses derivatives to gain leverage which can potentially be up to three times the value of its net assets. The fund will gain exposure to commodities to diversify the risk of the fund. Commodities are generally considered to be high risk investments and may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. The risks described herein are the fund specific material risks. For more information please consult the current fund and share class specific Key Investor Information Document (KIID) and for a complete set of risks the current prospectus.
