Quarterly fund commentary

The fund produced a negative return over the quarter. Exposure to developed equity markets was the largest detractor to results. Global markets fell markedly in both October and December in response to uncertainty regarding trade tensions between the US and China as well as concerns over central bank actions. Exposure to government bonds helped to offset some of the losses for the period as the return of volatility in equities and commodities led to a flight to perceived 'safe-havens'. All six markets to which the strategy offers exposure to saw yields fall over the period, despite the elimination of asset purchases by the European Central Bank and the US Federal Reserve continuing down the path of interest rate normalisation. Exposure to commodities detracted from results as economically sensitive commodities saw prices fall materially while agriculture and precious metals provided small relief. Energy prices collapsed over the quarter. Concerns over robust production along with fears of reduced demand on evidence of slowing manufacturing and economic activity resulting from the trade spat between the US and China, as well as central bank actions, led to the sharp drops.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. Debt instruments are exposed to credit risk which is the ability of the borrower to repay the interest and capital on the redemption date. Changes in interest rates will result in fluctuations in the value of the fund. The fund uses derivatives (complex instruments) for investment purposes, which may result in the fund being significantly leveraged and may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund. The Fund may invest in a dynamic way across assets/asset classes, which may result in periodic changes in the risk profile, underperformance and/or higher transaction costs. Investment in instruments providing exposure to commodities is generally considered to be high risk which may result in large fluctuations in the value of the fund.
