Quarterly fund commentary

Emerging European equity markets showed early promise but failed to hold onto early gains, ending the year in negative territory. Country performance during the quarter was varied with Poland and Czech Republic being the main laggards. The Polish equity market was unnerved by concerns about possible changes in economic policy from the new government. Equity weakness was less pronounced in Russia despite lower oil prices and increased tension between Moscow and Turkey following the shooting down of a Russian warplane in November. In economic news, positive readings from forward-looking sentiment indicators suggested that the worst of the recession in Russia may now be over. The fund is positioned to benefit from long-term growth opportunities in a region that we believe is undervalued by the market due to geopolitical tensions. The fund invests in Russia, Poland and a range of other countries across the region. We seek to hold stakes in companies that we believe are well-run and have market position that should allow them to deliver a high level of return on invested capital. The fund's diversified approach is reflected in sector positioning, which is spread across a broad variety of industries.

Risk Warnings

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested. The Fund may invest directly in Russia, which can involve significant risks to capital. As a large portion of the fund is invested in less developed countries, you should be prepared to accept significantly large fluctuations of the value of the fund. The fund invests in a limited number of holdings and is less diversified, and therefore this may result in large fluctuations of the value of the fund. The risks described herein are the fund specific material risks. For more information please consult the current fund and share class specific Key Investor Information Document (KIID) and for a complete set of risks the current prospectus.
